They Objected to His Participation in the Last Conference-His Last Review of the Situation Not Optimistic-Affairs Have Grown Worse in the Last Six Months.

MILNER OUT OF THE WAY.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, April 17 .- A blue book was issued to-day giving Sir Alfred Milner's request, made on April 3, for leave of absence from South Africa on the ground that he had worked continuously for two Ely & Co., and John N. Golding. It lies years and unless he obtained rest he would | nearly opposite the Chelsea apartment be unable to superintend the work of re- house. The price paid for the property

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, in reply, said he regretted the necessity for Sir Alfred leaving South Africa, but he recognized that a leave of absence was unavoidable, and he granted three months.

The blue book contains a long review of the situation written by Sir Alfred Milner at Cape Town, on Feb. 6, which, while not despondent, is in nowise optimistic. It s no use denying, he says, that the last thaif year has been one of retrogression. Seven months ago the colony was perfectly quiet as far as the Orange River. The southern half of the Orange Free State was rapidly settling down. A considerable portion of the Transvaal distinctly seemed to have accepted British authority and to have rejoiced at the opportunity to return to orderly government and peace.

Now the scene is completely altered. It would be superflous to dwell on the increased losses to the country caused by the prolongation of the struggle. The events of the last six months will involve a greater amount of repair and a longer period of recuperation, especially for agriculture, than anybody could have anticipated when the war began.

Sir Alfred holds, however, that the econo wise appalling. He dwells upon the country's recuperative powers, and especially upon the fact that the Rand and Kimberley have not been damaged. He Mrs Leroy J. Ellis of Forest avenue, Fansays he is convinced that it will not be wood, was taken ill with diphtheria. Neighmany years before the economic ravages of the war are effaced, and believes that the material destruction is less serious than the moral effect of the recrudescence

He concludes by summing up what he believes to be the almost unanimous feeling of South Africans who sympathize with the British Government. He says they are sick to death of the war, which has ruined many of them, but would rather it should continue indefinitely than risk any compromise leaving the remotest chance of its recurrence in the future. They are prepared to fight and suffer in order to make South Africa indisputably forever one country under the British system of government, but, that accomplished, they are willing to bury racial animosities. The attitude of almost all the leading representative men and the general trend of public feeling is against negotiations between Gen. Botha and the British was the Boer hostility to dealing with Sir Alfred Milner, who as British High Commissioner in South Africa had become very unpopular. It was stated that a request had been made by the Boers for his withdrawal from the negotiations, but that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain had refused to permit it. There have been recent rumors of a renewal of the negotlations between Gen. Kitchener and Gen. was found her affairs.

MORGAN GETS THE GAINSBOROUGH. Concludes Negotiations IIIs Father Started Before the Picture Was Stolen.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, April 17 .- THE SUN has received confirmation of the story that Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan has bought the Gainsborough portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire. It appears that Mr. Morgan's father was engaged in negotiations for the purchase of the picture when it was stolen Mr. Morgan, remembering his father's desire to secure the picture, telegraphed to Sir Thomas Agnew the moment he learned that it had been recovered, making an offer for the painting.

In reference to the price it was understood that the picture could be had for £22,000. but it is generally believed that it brought $25,000 A friend in discussing this point with Mr Morgan asked: "How much did you pay for it, Morgan?" Mr. Morgan replied: "Nobody will ever learn that." Thomas Agnew & Sons admit that the Gainsborough portrait has been sold, but they refuse to divulge the name of the pur-

Y. M. C. A. BUYS NEW SITE. Pwenty-third Street Branch to Move West on the Same Street.

The Twenty-third street branch of the Young Men's Christian Association bought site yesterday in Twenty-third street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, on which to build its new quarters. The plot, which fronts 93 feet 9 inches in Twentythird and Twenty-fourth streets and has a depth of 200 feet, contains ten old-fashioned dwelling houses, 211 to 219 West Twentythird street and 204 to 212 West Twenty-fourth street, and was purchased from the Marquis P. S. Suarez of Madrid, through Horace S.

was between $200,000 and $225,000. The new building will probably be seven stories high, and cost $450,000. The plans will be drawn by Parish & Schroeder. The building will contain dormitories and provid facilities for the special work required in conducting boys' classes, and will have a swimming tank, running track, and other features which the old building does not possess. The leases on the houses, mostly boarding houses, occupying the new site do not expire until May, 1902, but these will probably be bought up, so that construction work may be started in time to have the building completed by October, 1902, when the quarters on the corner southwest of Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue, sold last week to the Central Realty Bond and Trust Company and the New York Realty Company for something less than $800,000, must be surrendered.

The Twenty-third street branch serves the territory south of Forty-second street, and the geographical centre of its membership is at Fifth avenue and Sixteenth street. I was decided several years ago to sell the old building, which had become antiquated, and | cated by the tremendous transport service, the southwest corner of Lexington avenue and Twenty-sixth street was bought in 1898. Just as the association was about to begin building, however, the corner was condemned by the city as part of a site for the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory.

EVIDENCE OF CONSPIRACY TO SELI COMMISSARY SUPPLIES.

Lieut. Boyen to Be Tfled for Appropriating $600 Worth of Bacon-Charges Against Other Army Officers-Authorities Say Cabled Accounts of the Affair Are Exaggerated.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. MANILA, April 17.-Evidence of a conspiracy to sell surplus commissary supplies was presented to-day at the trial of Fletcher, a civilian employee, who is charged with larceny from the commissary stores. The defence presented a plea in bar, based on the ground that as a state of war did not exist a military commission had no jurisdiction in the matter. This plea was over-

Prominent army officers say there is no warrant for the sensational and exaggerated reports that have been cabled from here regarding the commissary scandal. They say the matter is really a tempest in a teapot and is of little importance except that it furnishes an opportunity for sensational correspondents to damage the army in the eyes of foreigners.

The investigations made by the Commissary Department show that the known shortages do not exceed $4,000. In most of the cases discovered no fraud has been proved. A very high authority states that at a most liberal estimate the shortages will not amount to more than $10,000. The depot handles $60,000 worth of stores monthly and has a stock on hand worth $2,000,000. The work of the department is compli-

It was also suspected that non-commissioned officers were selling small quantities of stores to local dealers, but it was impossible to catch them. Finally the secret service located stolen goods worth about $1,000, and it was the sale of these goods that afforded the basis for the present trials.

OVERDUE TRANSPORTS SAFE. The Lawton at San Francisco and the Garonn

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17 .- The Occidental and Oriental steamship Doric, arrived to-day from China, bringing welcome news of the safety of the overdue transports Garonne and Lawton. She was followed a few hours later by the Lawton. Both vessels had had smallpox aboard. The Doric was quarantined for several hours and the Lawton was tied upfor the night, no communication being allowed with her.

The Garonne, having on board the Twentysixth Infantry, put into Honolulu on April 8 in distress for coal. After leaving Nagasaki to proceed to San Francisco by the Northern route she encountered severe weather and was obliged to lay to. In buffeting this storm she exhausted her coal supply to such an extent that it was necessary to replenish it at Honolulu.

The Lawton brings 27 officers and 688 men of the Thirty-ninth Infantry.

Her sides are lined with row after row of large ports to give light and air to the spaces between decks. The first thing that the sallors aboard the Duguay-Trouin did was to go to work to make the ship clean outside. The white paint on her sides was swabbed off and her smoke on her sides was swabbed off and her smoke stack was treated to a new coat of yellow-brown paint. Capt. Honette went ashore in a gig to see the French Consul-General. The cade is are a clean-cut, likely-looking lot of young fellows, who seem to take themselves and their studies very seriously. There is a constant round of lectures and recitations going on aboard. They are to stay in this port for two weeks, and they will be allowed to go ashore every day and afternoon out of port for two weeks, and they will be allowed to go ashore every day and afternoon out of lecture hours. The only restriction on the number who are allowed to have shore liberty is that not more than half of the cadets shall be ashore at one time on general leave.

But the students and faculty of Columbia University are to give them a reception at the Columbia University buildings to-night. There will be feneral bouts between the Frenchmen and some of Columbia's young men. Manila, April 17.-The American Protes ant preachers have protested to the Provost Marshal against cock-fighting, one of the bases of their complaint being the permit recently granted to the widow of Capt. Lara by the Provost Marshal giving her the exclusive control of cockpits as compensation for the assassination of her husband, who was at the head of the Manila police. An attempt is being made to organize a public meeting to declare against the sport, but this is not meeting with favor principally because it is known that local business men would reap the benefit if Senora Lara's permit was revoked. It is not considered probable that the Americans will tax the cockpits as formerly.

The future municipal departments are carefully drafting revised ordinances so that when the administration of affairs is turned over to them in July the difficulties of a sudden and radical change from military to civil government will be avoided.

Col. Maximo Abad, chief of the Marinduque insurgents, and 61 men with rifles, surrendered to Major Smith on April 15. All were released after taking the oath of allegiance. ## ATTACK BISHOP OF LONDON.

ANTI-RITUALISTS RAISE A ROW AT THE CONFIRMATION.

People Mob Disturbers After the Service-Police Rescue Mr. Kensit and His Wife-Cheers for New Bishop, Who Is Known as "The Friend of the Man in the Street."

Special Cable Desputch to THE SUN. LONDON, April 17.-The Court of Arches. one of the ecclesiastical courts, met in the Church of St. Mary-le-Bow to-day to confirm the nomination of the Rt. Rev. A. W. F. Ingram as Bishop of London in succession to the late Bishop Creighton.

The Rev. R. C. Fillingham, vicar of Hexton, objected to the confirmation on the groun 1 that the Rev. Mr. Ingram had taken part in services in heathen temples, notably at St. Augustine's in Stepney, of which he was the Bishop, where, according to Mr. Fillingham, "senseless cake and flour and water was blasphemously and wickedly worshipped instead of the Almighty God.

This statement was greeted by a storm of hisses and groans and also cries of encouragement. A large number of people in the back of the church and in the aisles walked up to the table to support the objection Among the most prominent of these was Mr. John Kensit, the noted anti-ritualist. Bishop Ingram's election was confirmed finally, and he was enthusiastically greeted in the streets. There was a tremendous crowd outside the church When Mr Kensit appeared a well-dressed man knocked off his hat and an enraged woman attacked him with an umbrella. The police who were present in large numbers were unable to control the crowd. Several constables seized Mr. Kensit and them both through Cheapsi ie to Pater Noster

Row An excited crowd followed them, hoot ing and indulging in cat calls and cheers. When the Bishop came out of the church there was great cheering. When Mr. Kensit arrived at his shop he started to address the people but the police

Bishop Ingram's appointment was termed "a thorough disaster" by the anti-ritualists and when it was first announced Mr. Kensit threatened the disturbance which occurred yesterday at the confirmation. He referred to the new Bishop as "an out-and-out Romanizing ritualist who will do no end of harm to the Church." Stepney, where Bishop Ingram was stationed, is the East End section of the London district, and his work among the poor classes there was successful because it was on new lines—close association with his people and plain talk in his sermons. He came to be called the "friend of the man in the street." In his first sermon after his appointment as Bishop of London he told his old parishioners in an apologetic tone that hereafter he would have to ride in a carriage, but that if he passed any of them when he was riding alone to call out and he would give them a lift. He is a young man and a story of a love affair is told in some quarters as an explanation of his rather unexpected appointment as the successor of Bishop creighton. A few months ago, it is said, he was jilted by Lady Ulrica Duncombe, a celebrated beauty, at the order of her father. Earl Feversham, who objected to her engagement to a man without a title. Queen Alexandra, the story goes, was interested in Lady Ulrica, and gave her influence to secure the advancement of Bishop Ingram, who as Bishop of London may expect to become a more favored suitor. it was on new lines-close association with his
